Hayden-McNeil Student Laboratory Research Notebooks are the leading selling duplicating notebooks in the United States and Canada. They are adopted by more than 80% of the leading colleges and universities including every campus of the prestigious Ivy League beginning in the Fall of 2001. More copies of these notebooks are in use presently than the combined sales of the leading Organic and General Chemistry textbooks combined.

Developed by the leading publisher of this genre of duplicating laboratory notebooks. First introduced in 1992, the publisher has sold millions to date.

Very nice and sturdy lab notebook. I have no complaints, the sheets they include with the periodic table and some other formulas/conversions is very useful. I have used it for three labs so far. I'm almost ready for a new notebook and when the time comes I will order another one of these.

I've used one other kind of carbon-copy notebook besides this kind, and this one does a better job at producing a neat copy. However, this kind of notebook is the flip kind. The pages flip upward so the top of the cover becomes very crinkled. Caution needs to be taken not to eventually rip the cover off. I bought mine for $16 and currently it's over $19. I wouldn't pay more than the $16.

This notebook is great for keeping meeting notes and my daily schedule. The only thing I don't like about it is that it folds open at the top instead of the side, making it difficult to use on most desks, which are usually wider than they are long.

Definitely a nice quality lab journal, I used it for a part of my CHEM 2 lab and will use it in orgo 1. However, this is a SPIRAL LESS notebook so BE CAREFUL. I did intend to buy a spiral lab journal (much more convenient/recommended) but I didn't read the title carefully n just assumed it was spiral (my fault) anyways, nice notebook but if you're looking for a spiral one, this is not it

Don't want to say I like this product because I needed it for Organic Chemistry lab, but it's a well-done notebook. The perforated pages are easy to tear off and it's not too bulky or flimsy like other carbonless notebooks. The only issue is that the pad page (to put under each page so the writing doesn't bleed through) is a little short, so I can't easily write on the top of each page. Other than that, it's fine and at a good price.

Great lab notebook. I bought this one because I am left handed and hate to write in spiral bound notebooks. I was concerned about the pages, because I've used top bound sketch books before, and they are normally really flimsy and all the pages fall out. This book is very well constructed. I've torn out the carbon copies on the first 20 pages, and the original pages are still firmly attached to the book.

Im left handed, so wanted a notebook that would be easier to write with, rather than the spirals on the left handed side. This notebook works out well for that use. The only think i don't like is that the original copied papers don't have a dotted line for easy ripping out of the book

I love this lab notebook. It is very easy to use and the copy pages are white instead of yellow since it is carbonless. My Organic Chemistry professor liked this notebook better than the one he recommended at the beginning of the term.
