Georgia's Confederate Monuments: In Honor Of A Fallen Nation

Synopsis

GEORGIA'S CONFEDERATE MONUMENTS is the product of two decades of work, during which time the author has traveled throughout the state to photograph the memorials to the men and women of the Confederate States of America, to study their inscriptions, and to document information about their construction. The monuments are built in a variety of styles. The most typical monument is the statue on the town square. A close second is an obelisk in a cemetery or elsewhere, with a funereal design rather than a martial one. Next are the monuments honoring specific men or units. There are several monuments dedicated to the women of the Confederacy. In addition, the state is also graced with memorial walls, memorial stones, and the odd boulder, fountain, and arch-plus one Sigma Chi Cross, one lion, and one very tall chimney. GEORGIA'S CONFEDERATE MONUMENTS includes them all.

What an incredible treasure of information and photographs. Kudos to the author for taking on this massive effort that must have taken him years to compile. This is a must have for anyone interested in The War Between The States.

Gould Hagler has done a great service for the State of Georgia! As time goes on, most of these monuments will go by the wayside. This book is truly a treasure in preserving history!

This is a must have book for history buffs of the South. Mr. Hagler did an excellent job researching and documenting. Had no idea there were so many wonderful monuments to the Confederates. Recommend this book highly!

I am so happy I found this book. It is an indispensable guide for any Civil War buff! I hope Mr. Hagler will take the other states of the Confederacy with this kind of thorough research and wonderful photos.

A wonderfully accurate tour of Georgia and our history.
