Bugs As Pets (Animal Planet® Pet Care Library)

Synopsis

This book features most of the common insects, spiders, and other arthropods of North America, plus exotic species that are available at pet shops. It includes discussions of mantises, caterpillars, tarantulas, millipedes, hissing roaches, and much more--covering more than 50 species in total. T.F.H. has teamed up with Animal Planet®, the only television network devoted to the unique bonds between humans and animals, to present an exciting new series of family-friendly, comprehensive guides to superior pet care. Each book features newly written text from animal experts on a variety of topics, including feeding, housing, grooming, training, health care, and fun activities. Useful tip boxes in each chapter show every member of the household how to make the most out of owning a pet.

Jay Hemdal is the curator of fishes and invertebrates for the Toledo Zoo. In 1996, Jay developed the living terrestrial arthropod collection for the Toledo Zoo, which now comprises more than 25 exhibits and well over 1,000 animals. He lives in Michigan on the bank of the tranquil Raisin River.

This is a good introductory book to keeping arthropods as pets. It gives basic caging, food, and humidity requirements for many families of arthropods, as well as focusing on a few of the more popular individual species. It also does a good job of discouraging people from the more difficult pets to keep, which I think is very responsible.

Well informative book on keeping insects.
